

Abstract

A method and system is provided for providing content from a content provider to a viewer over a data network. The content is associated with an option to: (1) view 5 content with advertisements during the content for no compensation; or (2) view content without advertisements during the content for compensation.

03845495-050404